The Roommate

A mother visits her son for dinner. He lives with a female friend.

During the meal, she can't help but notice how pretty his roommate is. She has long been suspicious of a relationship between the two and this has only made her more curious.

Over the course of the evening she watches the two interact and wonders if there is more between them. Reading his mother's thought, her son volunteers,

"I know what you must be thinking, but I assure you, we are just roommates."

A week later, his roommate comes to him saying,

"Ever since your mother came to dinner, I've been unable to find the silver plate. You don't suppose your mother took it, do you?"

He replies:

"Well, I doubt it, but I'll email her just to be sure!"

He sits down and writes to his mother:

Dear mother,

Since your visit last week, the silver plate has been missing. I am not saying that you took the silver plate from my house, and I'm not saying that you didn't take it, but the fact remains that it has been missing ever since you were here for dinner."

Your loving son.

Several days later, he receives an email response from his mother:

Dear son,

I'm not saying that you do sleep with your roommate, and I'm not saying that you don't sleep with her but the fact remains that if she was sleeping in her OWN bed, she would have found the silver plate by now, under her pillow.

Your loving mother.

The Miser

There was once a man who loved his money above anything else.

He loved it so much he decided to take his money to the afterlife with him. He said to his wife: "Now, listen to me, when I die I want you to take all my money and place it by my side. This is my last wish and I want you to promise me you will do as I say."

So his wife promised him with all her heart that when he died she would put all his money in the casket with him.

Well, one day he died.

His wife sat all in black at the funeral service next to a friend. When the ceremony finished, just as the undertakers got ready to close the casket, she exclaimed: "Wait a minute!"

She had a large box with her, which she took and placed in the casket.

Friend: "I hope you weren't crazy enough to put all his money in there!"

Wife: "Yes, I promised, and I am a good Christian, I can't lie."

Friend: "OH! For crying out loud! Every cent?"

Wife: "I sure did. I got the money all his money, put it into my account and wrote him a cheque."

(She did keep his wishes... he didn't say how!)
